

Jordan Unit 9

1. I felt bad for the hippos and the squalid conditions of their cage.

2. By throwing my friend's phone into the pond, I completely stultified it.

3. When all of the prairie dogs ran into their holes, I had an inkling that something was going on. I looked into the sky and saw a vulture, which gave me my answer.

4. Johnny, who already amassed a dozen detentions a month into school, decided to put his renegade mask on and not come on the bus when it was time. His parents received a call from the zoo at closing time telling them he "had been forgotten".

5. In the aviary section we could walk through and feed the birds. But I told my friends not to because they will poop on us. When the rest of the class got pooped on, my friends thanked me for my knowledge and "obviation" skills.

6. Our teacher commended us (except Johnny) on our behavior at the zoo.

Ha!

Vocab 10 test

It is our pride to announce the opening of The Hunger Games (by Suzanne Collins): the summer camp! Our aim is to harness the brash and creative natures of any child, turning him or her into a survival expert. Forget your wastrel^{na.} of a child that sits in front of a television for hours. At THGTSC, we'll challenge your kids with insuperable odds and hostile environments - improving logic skills and promoting activity! One can be assured of our ingenuous motives; we are a simple, frank group of people wishing for the the entertainment and inspiration of children fighting to their (not) death. (We don't want to get sued.) Trust us, this summer camp will be a respite from the tepidity of modern life. So sign up today, and turn a recalcitrant, impertinent child into an active lover of life!

I LOVE IT!

* Elliot Grievances Against Humans

- Curse those humans! They cross my ~~at~~ bridge each day, prancing, dancing, singing, joking, as they tarnish my beautiful bridge. They are so sophomoric! And their very capricious to. I expect them to just cross the bridge peacefully, but instead they surprise me by peeking under to see if I am there. What impulsive and uncivil creatures. They deride me with jokes about my orange hair and ugly teeth. Even ginger trolls have souls. It's quite a quandary that I live in.
- ;) ha!

So to you Council of Trolls for Required Bridge Crossing Fees, please fix this mess. I cannot be blithe when these stupid humans wreck havoc ^{above} me. The few humans I would call exemplary, I have eaten, in my hunger, so you will have to create fees and rules to put them back to "exemplary" status. They taste much better that way...

Michael [redacted]

One fine spring morning, beneath a ~~grand~~ bridge sat 1 solitary troll who suffered brain damage after being kicked in the head by Billy Goat Gruff.

"Oh, those sophomoric goats," said the troll, "my council and I will get them this time!" However, one problem with this troll's evil plot was that he was the only one in his council. Due to

sh. no! brain complications, the troll often thought he had many friends within his council surrounding him at all times, when in fact he was the only troll in his tri-state area. "Next time they come by, we'll see who is decided!" cackled the troll. "This time,

I will not make capricious decisions based on whims and my stomach's cravings. No, this time I will not be foolish and make blithe decisions! This time,

Ha ha! I will be like George Washington, or Christopher Columbus! I will be a Thomas Edison, and become an exemplary model for trolls to come!"

loud!!

And thus ends a 1-troll council meeting.

Unit 11 Vocab Sentences

1. After assembling under the Secret Bridge for the weekly meeting, the trolls took the Precious Oath, which promoted blithe and sleepy behavior while standing guard at one's bridge.
2. The Chief of Troll Behavior and Services stood up to present the award for exemplary behavior: one young troll had squandered an extra 5 shillings from each passerby, something to be highly admired and strived for.
ha! love it!
3. When one troll accidentally spilled his Mud Juice on himself, he was derided by the others. How sophomoric and egotistical of him, to think that he did not have to be extra careful with the slippery cup!
4. The Head of Human Quandaries and Questions announced that the trolls must not respond to human curiosities — a fear had arisen that the humans might find out about this Secret Troll Council and Society.
5. The President of Fashion Design is quite capricious, and his latest passing fancy was new electric-blue ^{Michael Phelps} tunic for each troll! laughing out loud! Of course, this was immediately rejected.
